(Special from a Staff Correspondent.) UPPERVILLE, VA., November 8 -- To day Middlesex hounds made a fourth attempt to kill a red Piedmont Valley tox, and while they furnished some ex cellent sport for about thirty-five minites, they only succeeded in running the 'Red' to earth almost at the very point where he had gotten up. The English hounds showed greater speed than on a previous day and with hunting conditions ilmost perfect gave reynard a close run for his life. Mr. Higginson, the master, for his life. Mr. Higginson, the master, who rides and with judgment to hounds, has made himself very popular in the Valley on account of the excellent sport his hounds have furnished, and by reason of the quiet and sportsmanlike manner he has shown during the match.
